New World Meditation: Focusing-Mindfulness-Healing-Awakening by Lucinda Gray, Ph.D.
New World Meditation is a fusion of Focusing with Mindfulness, activating both of these amazing methods of stress reduction, healing and growth. NWM is a daily practice, a specific step by step method that goes beyond checking in, and gradually leads you into and through a healing process. Awakening is the fruit of this journey of self-discovery. Through healing you make peace with the past so that you are no longer haunted by fears of future repetitions. You are free to live in the beauty and joy of the Now; free to live with full authenticity because you accept your true self as the fully human being that you are.

Focusing - Learn From the Masters - Four Training Manuals by Lucinda Gray, Ph.D.

This book is a wonderful collection of articles from some of the best Focusing teachers in the world. This anthology was first developed to teach Focusing to teachers. Now it is being requested by Focusing trainers and coordinators all over the world. Thanks to new developments in publishing, we are able to make this new edition available as a general training resource at a greatly reduced price. The anthology is divided into 4 manuals which can easily be used in a training program. The manuals include short exercises that help you get the feel of Focusing. We find Focusing to be the most powerful change process we have ever encountered, and we hope you enjoy the collection as much as we do. The author is available for consultation at no charge to teachers who want to use this book in any training program.

Focusing in Clinical Practice: The Essence of Change by Ann Weiser Cornell.

“Since Eugene Gendlin’s landmark book Focusing, first published in 1978, there has been too little in the way of clinical application of his seminal work. In her thorough, illuminating book, Ann Weiser Cornell fills this need . . . It is “magic” made simple, pure and simple.”—Peter Levine, PhD, author of In an Unspoken Voice and Waking the Tiger: Healing Trauma.

Integrating mindfulness, body psychotherapy, positive psychology, and more, Focusing—used in conjunction with any therapy type—teaches clients how to contact their inner awareness or “felt sense” to spur real change and therapeutic progress. This practical guide explains the core principles of Focusing, how to incorporate it with other treatment modalities, and how to use it to treat a range of client issues.

The search for spiritual awakening can create a deep rift within us if we develop an aversion to our feelings, longings, and humanity. This highly acclaimed, practical book offers a path to mindfully engage with the fiery emotions and desires that relationships bring up for us. It explores how emotionally fulfilling relationships and spiritual development are two sides of the same coin of awakening. Bridging attachment theory with Buddhism and other spiritual paths, the book explores how weaving together mindfulness with Focusing creates a climate that connects us more deeply with ourselves, others, and life itself.

The Experiencing Scale: A Research and Training Manual by Marjorie H. Klein, Philippa L. Mathieu, Eugene T. Gendlin, and Donald J. Kiesler. The Experiencing Scale Manual consists of three volumes. Volumes I and II consist of printed material. Volume I reviews the theoretical anchorage of the concept and method, outlines its basic assumptions, and summarizes research employing the method. The second section of Volume I of the Manual considers the present version of the Scale including aspects of methodology and procedural application. Last comes the training manual, including the Scale itself and an overview the training sessions. Training involves raters’ listening to seven hours of audio recordings of therapy material (Volume III) or reading transcripts of these sessions (Volume II). Volume I ends with Expert Ratings and Justifications for the ratings of these practice sessions in order to provide feedback to raters. This is followed by two additional hours of audio material which are rated in order to provide final information on rater reliability. The package contains two manuals and ten CDs.

Sadie Listens: An Inward Journey by James Steele. A grief and healing story about the death of Sadie’s cat and how she notices and nurtures her feelings, all on her own. The illustrations use specific colors to represent Sadie in relationship with different aspects of herself. One of the greatest gifts to bestow upon a child is the ability to transform difficult feelings. Since this book’s debut in 2002, Sadie has encouraged children to overlay their own feelings onto Sadie’s situation, drawing them into a Focusing experience. The clarity and intensity of the illustrations give children full permission to go deeply into, and finally allow expression, to life’s paralyzing events. “The prevailing human may be the individual who can transform their broken humanness at the same velocity as technology and rapid planetary change”.

Creating Confidence - How to Do Social Work Without Destroying People's Souls by Anna Willman

Fifty years ago a handful of renegade social workers in the small conservative rural town of Roseburg, Oregon, started meeting with their welfare mom clients in the local bars for gripe sessions about the welfare system. Together they developed a radical new concept they called “People Planned Delivery” and a program for women called the Confidence Clinic. Their history includes brilliant successes and stunning betrayals. It is a messy story that begins with a lot of loud yelling and name calling and goes on to a proliferation of services, all designed and, to a great degree, operated by the people who were to benefit from them. This book tells their story and provides a clear guide to following their lead in helping women to empower themselves and transform their lives. “It only takes one woman to change the world, but a group of women can change anything.” Maxine Gish, Confidence Clinic graduate

“The Confidence Clinic...is what I call a psychic family – a group committed to mutual help...for women who have been isolated, despairing, and dependent.” Gloria Steinem, Revolution from Within

Focusing Through Interactive Pausing: The teacher and school experience of the Process with Derek McDonnell and Tadhg O’Lionaird. 1 DVD 28 minutes. The background to Focusing Through Interactive Pausing, as a process of dealing with behaviour management issues, began in direct response to external factors relating to and impacting on students in a DEIS band 1 school in Ireland. The intervention, which led to this research project, was intended as an initial step in the introduction of a school-wide response to behavioural management considerations. The process of using ‘Focusing’ as a modality in the building of resilience and problem solving practice among young people began, as a targeted response to behavioural management challenges and issues of emotional self-regulation, in the pursuit of better educational outcomes for students in a disadvantaged area primary school in Ireland.

Focusing Through Interactive Pausing: Live! A Day of Focusing in School with Derek McDonnell 1 DVD 58 minutes. Focusing through Interactive Pausing came about as a result of Derek McDonnell, a Certified Coordinator, being asked to bring his Focusing work from individual sessions to a classroom setting in a DEIS school in Ireland. A big challenge, but one Derek was confident that Focusing could meet, became the architectural landscape for the development of this iteration of Focusing which became known as The Pause Programme and later in its present form as Focusing through Interactive Pausing.

Some Philosophical Concepts: Philosophy - Practice
This new two disk DVD set was recorded at the live conference in New York. Disk # 1 (77min) Some Philosophical Concepts: Philosophy - In this rich animated and meticulous presentation, Dr. Gendlin explains several concepts that are building blocks of his Philosophy: “The Philosophy of Entry to the Implicit” is a Model for the modern world which keeps sharp conceptual definitions but it also includes and builds on the implicit. In his words: “There is no ‘is’, There is only ‘is’ and ‘Implies’”. Dr. Gendlin conveys how he uses the words “body” and “implicit”. The body is already an interaction - and living things imply not just the next movement, they imply process – their own process. Disk # 2 (73min) Some Philosophical Concepts: Practice - A delicate and sensitive “Experiential Demonstration” on this disk is preceded by a valuable introduction of Focusing-Oriented Psychotherapy. In a lively discussion that follows, Dr. Gendlin answers many interesting questions. The discussion brings a whole additional elaboration about the close correlation of Gendlin’s Philosophy and the Practice of Focusing-Oriented Psychotherapy.

TAE in 14 Steps
with Eugene T. Gendlin, Ph.D. 2 DVDs 235 min.
These two DVDs have been directed and edited to illustrate each of the fourteen steps, in order. Viewing this DVDs, even stopping it on each step and going over the illustrations several times should help people actually do the steps themselves. Each step is written on the screen and there are other visual aids to help viewers keep track of which step they are seeing. We recommend this set of two DVDs as an accessible introduction to TAE. The first DVD will take you from steps 1-9 and you will see them demonstrated with a variety of people. The second DVD will pick up at steps 10 - 14 with the Theory building steps. You will see them demonstrated with several people. TAE is the second practice developed out of Gendlin's Philosophy of the Implicit. The first one is Focusing and familiarity with Focusing is assumed for TAE. Thinking at the Edge consists of 14 Steps that help people think from their felt sense of implicit knowing and generate fresh language and fresh concepts.

A Focusing Approach to Life-Changing Illness with Joan Klagsbrun, Ph.D. 1 DVD 66 min.
This DVD is a dynamic presentation with several experiential exercises and a lot of wisdom from Joan Klagsbrun's passionate work. It will be of interest to anybody facing illnesses themselves or their families/friends. It is also recommended for health professionals who can use a Focusing approach when dealing with people in their care. Joan brings several examples of “mini focusing moments”, which can make so much difference to people who are facing and learning to live with illness. Focusing can be the inner compass that helps people navigate through the territory of serious illness. It invites people to connect with body, mind, and spirit when making important medical decisions to perceive inner meanings rather than taking cues from others; to understand their own stories in a fresh way; to build a life-enhancing social network and to integrate the illness experience in such a way that their humanity is expanded. Using case examples and experiential exercises, this DVD will help you to discover how Focusing can be a catalyst for experiencing health in the midst of illness.

Wholebody Focusing
with Kevin McEvenue. 1 DVD 114 min.
Wholebody Focusing is the innovative work of Kevin McEvenue, powerfully combining the principles of Eugene T. Gendlin's Focusing Process with the Alexander Technique. This DVD illustrates how Wholebody Focusing comes out of the blending of two processes - Alexander Technique and Focusing.
Dr. Eugene Gendlin developed Focusing as a teachable way to access our own body knowing by paying attention to what he called a "felt sense". Felt sense can "open" into a whole field of intricate detail, from which surprising steps of change come. F.M. Alexander discovered the importance of activating a physical functioning that awakens the body as a whole towards a sense of expansion and inner flow. Wholebody Focusing puts these two pieces together in a way that enhances both. In Wholebody Focusing we get in touch with the self in a whole body kind of way. This invites spontaneous movement and a sense of inner direction. We can then allow any particular part of us that needs special attention to come into relationship with this Wholebody sense.

Focusing, Psychotherapy & The Implicit

a 5-week course on CDs with Eugene Gendlin & Ann Weiser Cornell.

Focusing, Psychotherapy & The Implicit is a course to support psychotherapists and other healing professionals in being with their clients in a Focusing-oriented way. This is a slightly edited version of a live, interactive, 5-week phone course with the legendary author of Focusing and one of his most well known students. Focusing is a process that has been linked in over 50 research studies with successful outcomes in psychotherapy. Research has shown that successful therapy clients make contact with a felt sense – a murky, hard to describe, more-than-words experience that is broader and vaguer than emotion. With a certain quality of attention, felt senses can “come into focus” and bring fresh insights and new behavior.

Intuitive Focusing Training with Kathleen McGuire, Ph.D. - 2 CD’s.

Through Relaxation and Felt Sensing exercises, CD One teaches the steps of Focusing: relax, go quietly inside, and “clear a space” for problem identification; find the “bodily felt sense,” or “intuitive feel,” of the chosen issue; go back and forth between left-brain symbolizing and right-brain “intuition”; experience a Paradigm Shift as the kaleidoscope turns, and new possibilities, behaviors, and solutions arise in an experiential “Ahah!” CD Two includes two full-length sets of Complete Focusing Instructions. The exercises in sequence can be used to learn Focusing alone. They can also be used to teach a class or workshop.
